HITLER SPURNS F. D. R.

RAPS BRITISH, POLISH PACTS

Hitler Argument—The pomp and power of Nazi Germany parade behind Chancellor Hitler's car in a great birthday celebration for Der Fuehrer . . . arguments that back his his rejection of President Roosevelt's peace plea.

HITLER SPURNS F.D., GIVES PEACE TERMS

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 28—In a bristling speech tearing to shreds the Anglo-German naval treaty and his non-aggression pact with Poland, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today sarcastically rejected President Roosevelt's demand for a European peace guarantee but at the same time disclaimed any intention of war.

Addressing the Reichstag on the twentieth anniversary of the day that German delegates left Berlin to sign their names to the "shameful" Treaty of Versailles, Hitler insisted he had no territorial designs upon France or any other non-German nation but once again voiced his demand for return of the Reich's war-lost colonies.

In the course of his long speech to his Nazi deputies, which held the entire civilized world under unprecedented tension for more than two hours, the Fuehrer time and again expressed his unequivocal wish for peace but served notice upon the world that these are the tenets of German policy:

1—Danzig must be allowed to return to the Reich.

2—The German-Polish non-aggression treaty has been rendered invalid by Poland's rejection of Germany's offer for a peaceful settlement of the corridor problem and by her participation in Britain's program of "encirclement."

"Monroe Doctrine" for Europe

3—The Anglo-German naval treaty, restricting the Reich to 35 per cent of England's naval power has ceased to exist because of Britain's insistence upon regarding Germany as a potential enemy.

4—Germany will make known her policy toward any individual countries that ask for it, but the Reich's only answer to Roosevelt is that there is now a "Monroe Doctrine" for Central Europe as in the Americas.

5—Germany never again will enter a conference room unarmed.

Hitler also again affirmed the allegiance of Germany to a military alliance with Japan and Italy.

Replying directly to Roosevelt, Hitler listed his accomplishments and the handicaps he had encountered.

After telling of taking over Austria and Czechoslovakia, he said:

"Mr. Roosevelt, I have endeavored to attain all this without spilling blood and without bringing to my people and consequently to others the misery of war.

"You, Mr. Roosevelt, have a much easier task in comparison ... from the very outset you stepped to the head of one of the largest, wealthiest states in the world."

He asserted he is a man of peace and detests warmongers.

HIS WAR CHALLENGE

The German nation is dedicated to peace, but should war come "German resistance will be such that 1914 would be as nothing compared to it," he declared with fervor.

The Saar plebiscite, he said, solved for all time all territorial problems between France and Germany and there are no German claims upon England save those regarding colonies. He emphasized the desirability of continued collaboration with the British empire, but threw the onus for pres-

Text of Speech Sent to F. D. As Hitler Reply

BERLIN, April 28 (AP)—The text of Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech was handed to the United States embassy today as the chancellor's official reply to President Roosevelt's peace appeal of April 14.

Raymond Geist, charge d'affairs, received the text, it was announced officially.

Paris Sees Speech Baring Nazi Plans For Polish Thrust

PARIS, April 28 (AP)—First French reaction to the Hitler speech in circles close to the Foreign Office was, in the words of one, that it "closely resembles an anti-climax."

Diplomatic sources, however, said they considered that Hitler might have been preparing the way for a sudden stroke against Poland.

His denunciation of the ten-year German-Polish non-aggression pact caused considerable uneasiness when taken in connection with his announcement that Poland had refused his "just" offer for a settlement of Danzig and Polish corridor problems.

"He is just trying to scare Poland," said one well-informed observer. "He won't get away with it."

Blast at Poland Bluff Says Warsaw Official

WARSAW, April 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's denunciation of the 10-year 1934 non-aggression pact with Poland was characterized as "bluff" in authoritative Polish circles today.

Gayda Lauds Speech As Warning to Foes

ROME, April 28 (AP)—Virginio Gayda, editor who often speaks Premier Mussolini's mind, today praised Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech as "a warning against the foreign policy" which counsels "offensive action for the protection of imperial interests and egoisms."

Gayda's comment in Il Giornale D'Italia appeared on the streets a minute after the German chancellor's speech ended.

$7000 Pay Holdup Foiled in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, April 28—Three bandits, one displaying a revolver, administered a terrific beating to a janitor today in what police believe to have been an unexpected blocking of a payroll holdup plan.

Half an hour before the janitor was set upon in the basement of the Service Wood Heel Company plant in Union street, the weekly $7000 payroll had been delivered to the company offices on the second floor.

In the plant more than a dozen girls were working, all unaware that the janitor, Henry Thomas, 53, had inadvertently interrupted the holdup plot.

JANITOR FELLED BY GUN

Thomas shortly after 10 a. m. went into the basement of the three-story structure to turn on a heat valve.

In the basement he surprised the three men, who apparently were hiding there preparatory to slipping up to the second floor offices.

Almost without warning the three attacked Thomas, the armed man bashing him on the head with the revolver, the others using their fists.

The janitor's cries penetrated to the upper floors, but when employes came down to investigate the assailants had fled.

Thomas was taken to Lawrence General Hospital and treated for a lacerated scalp and multiple bruises.

GIRL CALLS AID

A ttelephone call to police by a girl operator in the plant brought two radio cars to the building. Search of the neighborhood was made but the bandits had escaped.

RIGHT SIDE NOW!—Little Billy Donovan, 1½-year-old Brockton boy, shows delight in his remarkable recovery from operation to rectify his "upside down" stomach. Doctors at Children's Hospital remarked that never in their memory has a child recovered so quickly from so serious an operation.

HERO'S REWARD—Robert Loring, 11, who had the presence of mind to turn off the ignition in bus after it was overturned by freight train in Concord, is rewarded with a great big kiss by Lucretia Edwardson, 7, who was a passenger on the bus.

GIRL BURIED ALIVE, 2 CHUMS SAVED, IN SAND PIT SLIDE

WORCESTER, April 28—Buried alive under the sliding wall of a sandpit, three-year-old Joan Perks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Perks, was dead today.

Her life was snuffed out while two tiny girl playmates who were with her managed to dig themselves free.

Beverly Van Alstyne, a year older, dug her way out with her hands and was racing homeward to tell her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Van Alstyne of

JOAN PERKS

Hope ave. what had happened to her when she was spied by James E. Walsh, foreman of a sewer construction job.

He saw that one of her shoes was missing and noted the disheveled appearance of the child's clothing and the sand clinging to her hair. Running to the pit he saw the forms of two children beneath piles of sand.

Frantically he cleared the sand away from Catherine Van Alstyne, three-year-old sister of Beverly. Then he dug out Joan. Doctors at the City Hospital found Joan was dead. Catherine, after treatment, was sent home.

This Adolph Kills

NEW YORK, April 28 (INS)—Anthony Furman, 41, died early today from stab wounds he said he suffered in a Bowery saloon brawl precipitated by his bitter denunciation of Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Before he died he told police he knew his attacker only as "Adolph." An alarm was broadcast for him.

Mrs. Lindbergh Arrives in U. S. With Her Sons

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and her two sons, Jon, six, and Land, 23 months, returned to their homeland today aboard the French liner Champlain.

An automobile met them at the dock when they landed, and, under police escort, they were driven to the estate of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, at Englewood, N. J.

They came to the United States to join Colonel Lindbergh, who, arriving here April 14, is surveying aviation research facilities for the government.

It was Mrs. Lindbergh's first trip to her homeland since December, 1937.

Land was born abroad and Jon has not been in this country since his parents went into voluntary exile in December, 1935.

HAIL CONCORD BOY HERO AS PROBE OF BUS CRASH BEGINS

To all Concord today, 11-year-old Robert Loring was a hero, as police and railroad officials probed the collision of a Boston & Maine freight train and a school bus in which 16 school children and the driver narrowly escaped death.

It was young Robert who twisted his way through a struggling, hysterical mass of his schoolmates and shut off the ignition in the wrecked and overturned bus.

The wrecked bus lay on its side and danger of an explosion was imminent until the boy reached the switch.

Observers said the lad's action undoubtedly prevented the bus from bursting into flame. With the entire front staved in by the speeding freight, the bus rolled over before it settled on its side beside the railroad tracks against a pole.

The driver, James Finnegan, 68, was hurled through the windshield and was taken to the Emerson Hospital, suffering from severe lacerations of the face and possible fracture of the skull.

Also treated at the hospital were the 16 children, pupils at the Harvey Wheeler School, West Concord. All but one, William Sheehan, 16, of Barrett's Mill rd., the oldest of the group, were released. Sheehan suffered a broken bone in his arm and possible fractured skull.

Sheehan had been the first to see the freight train just before the collision.

"Look at the train," he shrieked at the driver.

But with a shrieking of brakes the train and bus collided.

It was then that young Robert turned off the ignition.

"Why I read it in an aviation book!" he modestly told rescuers who were amazed by his quick action. "That's what they instruct every aviator to do when his plane goes into a crash. Don't you know—it prevents fires!"

Also shaken up in the crash were Robert's two brothers, John, 13, and Richard, 11, John Hancock, 11, and his brother Francis, 12, of Barrett's Mill rd.

Schoolgirl Heroine Shouts Alarm to Save Score in Fire

A 15-year-old Roxbury schoolgirl saved nearly three-score persons from possible injury or death today when she ran through the smoke-filled corridors of a large Linden Park apartment block to arouse the sleeping tenants.

Strangely enough the girl, Violet May Stevens of Kent street, Roxbury, was awakened by sirens of fire engines responding to another alarm.

"I went to the kitchen," said Violet, an eighth grade pupil in the James P. Timilty intermediate school and a member of the Salvation Army girl life guards, "for a glass of water.

"Our kitchen window overlooks Linden park and I noticed smoke pouring out of a third-floor apartment. I called my mother and told her I was going over to investigate. She didn't want me to, but I went.

"When I reached the building I noticed that the third-floor window was glowing red. I rang the bell at No. 11, but no one answered, so I ran inside.

"We were instructed in the Girl Guards to rouse top-floor tenants in a fire first, so I dashed upstairs and pounded on all the doors, shouting 'Fire! Fire!'

"Everyone came running out then, and the smoke in the hal was pretty thick. Someone dashed down the stairs to ring in the alarm.

"I wanted to run into the apartment where the fire seemed to be, but a couple of men held me back."

Firemen found a burning mattress in the apartment tenanted by Edward Kelley and his son, Peter. Both men had left for work, however, before the blaze had broken out, it was learned. Firemen said if it hadn't been for Violet, tenants might have easily suffocated in their sleep.

'All Wars' Hit By First Lady

WORCESTER, April 28—Coming here from Hyde Park to make an address on "Peace" at Memorial Auditorium, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt drove herself home again today, leaving behind a message of her deep-seated aversion to war—any kind of war.

"It seems incredible to me that people who remember the last war should resort to that method again to make any condition, anywhere, any better," she told an audience of more than 4000 at the auditorium.

Naturally interested in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's address to the Reichstag today, the First Lady restrained her curiosity until it was over, because she said, "it was a little bit too early for me to get up."

RIPS BILLS IN HALF TO REPAY CITY

There's nothing like having a conscience and inherent honesty—even if you don't see your way clear to atribute those virtues to others.

In the mail today Mayor Tobin received the halves of two $10 and of $1 bill. City Treasurer James J. McCarthy received the others halves of the three bills.

The city treasurer's envelope contained a pencil-scrawled note, unsigned, which read:

"I am forwarding money I was overpaid on a snow-removal job. I'm so ashamed of myself I can't sign my name."

Mayor Tobin received a note, too, with his halved bills and this read:

"Through the error of a timekeeper I was overpaid this amount on a snow removal project. I needed the money badly but I can't keep it. I'm sending you half and the treasurer half, so the city will be sure to get it."

The halves were matched to make a total of $21 and it went into the treasury.

'Trailer' Out Front In Dowling Caravan

By PEGGY DOYLE

She disturbs his slumbers at 6 every morning, bombards him with questions when he is deep in the reading of what might be next year's Broadway hit play and otherwise pokes her little button of a nose into things that are none of her business.

But, just the same, "The Trailer," as Eddie Dowling has nicknamed his two-year-old Mary Maxine, is dearer to him than any theatrical triumph he's ever had in a career studded with theatrical triumphs.

Yes, dearer even than that broth of a play, "The White Steed," his production of the Paul Vincent Carroll comedy which won the New York Drama Critics' award for the year's best imported play and which he is bringing to Boston May 5 at the height of a successful New York run and at World's Fair prices.

"Good bye, Eddie, do a good show," Eddie's wife of more than 25 years who is the gill-sized and celebrated comedienne, Ray Dooley, farewelled him last evening, as he was leaving his Ritz-Carlton suite for the Plymouth and his stage manager role in "Our Town."

"Bye, Daddy, do good show," piped up Mary Maxine unexpectedly in the best Ray Dooley tradition, much to the amazed delight of her doting parents.

"That's what I mean," said Eddie, shaking his head in dazed admiration. "Imagine her picking that up! She gives us a surprise a minute. She's the best show I've ever had anything to do with. Darling, your old man thinks you're swell."

Mary Maxine has heard all about the Public Garden's swan-boats—in fact, she was brought here by Mrs. Dowling the other day for the express purpose of having her first ride in a swan-boat.

And Eddie is more concerned about the reluctant sun coming out and making this momentous event in Mary Maxine's young life an actuality than he is in the boxoffice "take" for "Our Town" or "The White Steed."

And now a word about "The White Steed," which the Drama Critics' Circle has officially selected as the finest play brought to America this season.

EDDIE DOWLING AND "THE TRAILER"

Producer Dowling is making it available to Hub playgoers at $2.20 top for evening prices and $1.65 for matinees. The downward revision in prices long looked for will be inaugurated in New York City during the World's Fair, a number of the reductions going into effect on Monday.

Dowling therefore decided to include Boston theatergoers in on one of the financial benefits of the Fair as well as give them the award play.

As a matter of fact it was Dowling who early this year started a one-man campaign in New York to bring about a reduction in theater admissions so that hundreds of thousands who love the theater but have been kept away by economic difficulties would flock back to the theater.

"It was like the long-standing complaint of Mark Twain's that everybody talked about the weather but nobody did anything about it," said Eddie, who acted as well as talked.

Eddie Dowling's appearance in Boston today at the Plymouth Theater in the leading role of "Our Town" is a direct result of this campaign.

It is his personal contribution to the cause of less expensive theatrical entertainment. He is doing his bit to make possible a $3 show for the price of $1.

BLAME POLAR AIR FOR 'NASTY' APRIL

Just in case you didn't know it, this has been a tough April—the nastiest in 22 years, according to the weather bureau.

So if you're having chills and aches in your bones, and think that spring is long past due, you can blame it on the polar regions.

A big block of cold air has been hanging stubbornly over Canadian points to the north, and every time a warm breeze from the south tries to make itself felt, the result is nothing more than a chill, dank rain.

As a result:

Boston has had 20 cloudy April days, twice as many as usual.

There have been just two clear days this month. Remember them?

On 20 days the sun managed to peep through a mess of low hanging clouds.

But on 10 days it drizzled, or just plain rained.

The temperature for the month has been 2.4 degrees below normal, on the average, registering 44.4 degrees.

Coldest previous April on record was April, 1874, when the thermometer averaged 38.8 degrees.

Rainfall so far has been 4.56 inches—compared to the average fall for the whole month of 3.23.

And below-freezing temperatures have been registered on three days.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

Rescue Boy, 8, Locked 2 Days In Rumble Seat

RIVERSIDE, N. J., April 28 (AP)—Eight-year-old Robert Perry was recovering today from a two-day accidental imprisonment in the locked rumble seat of a parked automobile.

Pale and weak from hunger, Robert climbed from his cramped quarters Tuesday after a guard at the Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia, told the car's owner, Miss Louise Presbrey, "A kitten's crying in your car."

Miss Presbrey, manager of the arsenal cafeteria, said the car had been parked at the Central Airport in Camden from Sunday until Tuesday while she visited Washington. Robert told her he climbed into the seat Sunday night and it snapped shut.

Injured Driver Treated for Hurts

John M. Crowley, 23, of Clinton place, Newton Centre, was at the Newton Hospital today suffering from injuries to knees and chest, when his car failed to negotiate a curve on Lexington st., near Staniford st., Auburndale, and crashed into a light pole. He told police he was blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile.

Graft 'Proof' Ready, Lyman Waits Quiz

Rebuked by the governor, under fire by many high officials as a result of his address charging wholesale political corruption in the state, Commissioner of Correction Arthur T. Lyman today promised to back up his charges.

That the measure to investigate the paroles and pardons of past administration would reach the governor's desk and be signed on Monday was all but a foregone conclusion.

Lyman declared that he would appear before that special commission as soon as he was invited. Otherwise he had "no comment" at the moment.

It was indicated from other sources, however, that he might make allegations more sensational than those in the address before the American Unitarian Association Wednesday evening.

"Obviously exaggerated," was the term applied to Lyman's address by Governor Saltonstall.

"If anyone has any evidence of such conditions as Mr. Lyman described, I want him to come to my office and tell me and I will do something about it," he added.

BROOKS SCORES LYMAN

Frank A. Brooks, governor's councilor, struck back at Lyman for his statement that John Tartar, "one of the worst killers released here," was still at large. He retorted that Tartar would never have been paroled but for the negligence of Lyman.

"I am not at all opposed to a thorough investigation of any pardons or paroles for the purpose of fixing the blame for any improper acts," said Brooks.

"But why not investigate Lyman's department, also? Within a year state police were called into his department to straighten out certain difficulties there. The commissioner of public safety and one of his assistants were two of the referees in this case. The report of the findings of this group has never been published. Why not?"

Chairman Brooks said Lyman's negligence consisted in suppressing news of an outbreak in jail on Sept. 27, 1926, in which Tartar provoked a fight and was almost killed by another inmate. The information comes to him, Brooks said, in a letter which Lyman claims was stolen from the files between his office and that of the Governor's.

Brooks declared Tartar should have been given a mental examination with a view to deciding whether he belonged in a mental institution. Had the incident been known Tartar would not have been paroled, he said.

SENATE FAVORS PROBE

The Senate ways and means committee lent color to Lyman's charges by reporting unanimously in favor of a resolution to appropriate $2000 for an investigation of pardons. Rep. Phillip Bowker of Brookline, co-sponsor of the measure, said he would ask the investigating commission to summon Lyman as a witness.

City Councilor Phillip A. Fish extended an invitation to Lyman to appear before the city council on Monday and tell who the Deer Island official is who allegedly paid $50 for his job. He also seeks information about the reputed sale of liquor at $1.50 a bottle to inmates and dope at 50 cents a shot.

Maj. George A. F. Mulcahy, master of Deer Island house of correction, said regarding charges that $200,000 a year is wasted in food expenditures there:

"The total allowance for food is $85,000 a year and you can't waste $200,000 out of $85,000."

Dope and liquor charges Mulcahy termed "ridiculous."

WALDORF CAFETERIAS

HOPE FOR WIFE, STAB VICTIM

LOWELL, April 28—Given two emergency blood transfusions, Mrs. Gertrude Nicholson today battled against death from seven stab wounds inflicted by her husband a few minutes before he killed himself by ramming his auto into a truck in Burlington.

The Billerica young woman, mother of two children, was struck by a chair, then ripped in the neck and back by her husband, who wielded a Swedish hunting knife.

The husband, Lester P. Nicholson, had rushed from his home, leaving his wife, apparently believing he had killed her.

Clad only in his underwear, Nicholson leaped into his sedan and roared away over the Lowell pike. In full view of police, who were investigating an earlier accident and who tried in vain to flag him, he deliberately crashed head on into a 10-ton gasoline tank truck.

The terrific impact of the collision hurled him through the windshield to instant death, tearing the motor from its mountings and landing it 60 feet away. George Riley of Newport ave., Wollaston, driver of the truck, was uninjured.

Nicholson was a linotype operator for a concern in India st., Boston, of which his wife was secretary.

Artists' Sunday Sales Protected by Solons

State Senators firmly declined to be shocked by mention of the "Bohemian atmosphere of immorality" in which artists live, and advanced a bill to permit Sunday exhibition and sale of artists' paintings to aid the tourist trade in the North Shore towns.

Senator Thomas M. Burke of Boston raised the objection that many immoral pictures might be shown, because artists lived in a "Bohemian atmosphere of immorality." Senator Cornelius F. Haley of Rowley said an old blue law was invoked in Rockport last summer to stop the Sunday sale of paintings and that it hurt the tourist trade.

EX-ATTORNEY DEAD

POMFRET, Ct., April 28—Edwin Guthrie McInnes, 76, former Boston attorney, died of a heart attack at his home here shortly after taking a walk. Born in Roxbury, he was engaged in practice for 45 years in Boston.

Test Tube Babies Prove Mostly Girls

TORONTO, April 28—Test tube babies passed their first scientific laboratory step today, but with prospects that if ever produced they will not be raised just to fill armies, for all are likely to be girls.

The first step was reported to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology from Clark University. There 43 virgin ova, unfertilized human "eggs" taken directly from ovaries by surgical operations, were placed in test tubes.

The ova not only lived but demonstrated their ability to "mature" away from their "mothers." The maturation consisted in polar body and chromosome changes by which they get ready to divide, which is the first step toward reproduction.

This proof that the human ovum is able to live temporarily in a test tube is a small step in itself. The significance lies in the fact that the experiment repeats the history of like discoveries in lower animals.

In the animals the experiments have led to production of young without any fertilization by males. In such experiments, in the great majority of cases, the young all have been females.

The Clark work was reported by Dr. Gregory Pincus who said emphatically he is not planning to carry it on to find out whether human babies can be made by test tube methods.

Dr. Pincus has, however, made young rabbits by this "virgin birth" process.

Calling All Big Heads! Here's Good News!

TORONTO, April 28—Here's a tip, for those interested, from the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology now in session here:

To sober up quickly when dead drunk, take an intravenous injection of insulin and of glucose.

Discovery that these two "shots" will quickly reduce the alcohol in the blood was reported to the convention by Walter Goldfarb, Karl M. Bowman and Samuel Farker, of Bellevue and Kings County hospitals, New York city.

They tried it on drunks brought to the hospital. The shots convert the alcohol into water and carbon dioxide.

WOULD LOSE SEATS

Boston will lose two seats in the House under provisions of the redistricting bill favorably reported and now due for another report on June 1. Democrats said today that bitter opposition would meet the measure. Boston's representatives would be reduced from 43 to 41.

PLANS ADOPTION — Mary Pickford, America's sweetheart, today revealed her intention to raise a child — a "little sweetheart of her own" . . . so she's making plans to adopt an infant from The Cradle in Evanston, Ill.

50 Miles Per Gallon On New Midget Car

INDIANAPOLIS, April 28 (AP)—Powel Crosley, Jr., Cincinnati radio and refrigerator manufacturer, introduced to the motor industry today a new low-priced two-cylinder automobile designed to get a top speed of 50 miles an hour and run 50 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

The car was christened with a bottle of gasoline and made its first run on the Indianapolis Speedway before some 200 Crosley wholesalers and automotive dealers.

It is to be built in two-passenger convertible coupes, priced at $325, and four-passenger convertible sedans, at $350.

Production will start at once in Cincinnati and Richmond, Ind., plants, with Richmond the final shipping point. A public showing will be given Sunday at the New York World's Fair.

Though accommodating persons over six feet tall, the car is only 10 feet long and four and a half feet high and weighs 925 pounds. The gasoline tank holds only four gallons, but Crosley said that amount would take the car 200 miles.

Airplane principles eliminate weight. Power comes from a light aviation-type two-cylinder, four-cycle motor and air cooling from an aviation-type suction blower, part of the flywheel. The drive shaft runs straight to the rear axle without going through universal joints.

3 JAILED IN AUTO PLOT

Convicted on charges of conspiracy to steal property of the Commercial Credit Company in an involved trial concerning disappearance of 21 automobiles, three defendants were given House of Correction sentences in Middlesex superior court today.

Judge Wilford D. Gray sentenced Homer Ployer, 32, of Auburn street, Charlestown, to one year; Harold Wells, 38, of Prospect road, Everett, to nine months, and Ralph Johnston, 28, of Boston avenue, Medford, to six months.

Testimony was offered that Ployer and Wells, who ran an automobile agency in Arlington, and Johnston, an employe of the credit company, falsified records permitting the agency to dispose of 21 cars. Nine of the cars have been recovered.

Three Plead Guilty In Cassidy Slaying

WHITE CLOUD, Mich., April 28 (AP)—Three members of a family who confessed plotting the death of 20-year-old Helen Cassidy to gain custody of her four children, pleaded guilty today to charges of first degree murder, making sentences of life imprisonment mandatory.

Elton Cassidy, 24, brother-in-law of the victim, admitted he choked her to death last February 26 at her farm home and hanged her body in a stairwell to simulate suicide. The others who entered pleas of guilty in circuit court are Charles Cassidy, 23, estranged husband of Helen, and Mrs. Matilda Cassidy, 46-year-old mother of Charles and Elton.

U. S. Correspondent Forced to Quit Italy

ROME, April 28 (AP)—Richard Mowrer, Rome correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, left Rome today by automobile for Paris. Two weeks ago he was ordered to leave Italy because the government disliked the tone of his dispatches.

Due to intercession of the United States embassy he had been given until May 5 to depart. Last night however, he was told that unless he left at once he would be arrested.

Fleet Completes Passage of Canal

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., April 28 (AP)—The United States fleet's transit through the Panama Canal en route to the Pacific from the Atlantic was virtually completed today. Last units were scheduled to go through the locks this afternoon.

Admiral C. C. Bloch, commander-in-chief, said the fleet would remain at Panama until Tuesday, and then sail for California.

St. John River Falls As Ice Jam Is Halted

The jam was stopped ten miles above Fort Kent.

Missouri Youth Dies in Gas Chamber

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 28 (INS)—Robert Kenyon, 22, youngest man to die in Missouri's gas chamber, paid with his life early today for the kidnap-slaying in January, 1937, of Dr. J. C. B. Davis, 67, of Willow Springs, Mo. The Ozarks youth entered the chamber at 12:07 a. m. and was pronounced dead five minutes later.

Saltonstall Leaves On Chicago Trip

Governor Saltonstall left for Chicago this afternoon on a trip his office described as a private mission. He expects to return Sunday night or Monday morning.

Lieutenant Governor Cahill will serve during the chief executive's absence.

'Little White House' May House Overflow

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—The capital may get a "Little White House"—an office building to house overflow activities of the White House staff, which is being enlarged by President Roosevelt's reorganization plans.

Officials said today that no location has been considered for the building in case one is decided on.

The White House staff now numbers 290, including about 65 police who use little office space. But the President's first reorganization plan, which will be effective unless Congress vetoes it in 60 days, attaches to the White House staff hundreds of workers in the Budget Bureau, National Resources Committee and Central Statistical Board.

The reorganization bill also authorized the President to appoint six $10,000-a-year executive assistants, for whom no room is available in the present White House offices.

At first rooms will be taken across the street in the State Department building.

Revere Girl Auditor Hints Ouster Fight

She would be judged by the man who fired her, so Miss Josephine Farrell, Revere's attractive city auditor, who was summarily ousted by Mayor Laurence Gillis, wasn't certain today about asking for a hearing.

After serving as auditor for a year and a half, the young woman received a surprise dismissal notice from the mayor as she walked home yesterday.

MAYOR IS JUDGE

An officer in a police cruiser drove up to her and gave her the note from Mayor Gillis, who is given power under the city charter to remove employes. Officials thus fired have a right to ask a public hearing within 15 days.

"I am not under civil service and I cannot say what my plans will be regarding a hearing," Miss Farrell said today.

"Of course, under the provisions of the city charter, the mayor is the judge and conducts the hearing."

Mayor Gillis said his action was "for the good of the service, for inattention to duties of office and for the good of the city."

AIDE TO O'BRIEN

Since January, when he threw out officials appointed by Mayor James O'Brien, Mayor Gillis has been reported ready momentarily to discharge Miss Farrell. She served O'Brien as secretary when he was city treasurer, as mayor's secretary when he was elected in 1935, and was appointed auditor by him.

In reply to Mayor Gillis' charges, she said:

"The work in my office has been faithfully performed. I have put in lots of extra hours and have been on the job at all times. My work and the books are right up to the minute."

Miss Josephine Barry, an assistant in Miss Farrell's office, was designated acting auditor.

FIREMEN QUIT IN CHIEF'S OUSTING

WEST NEWBURY, April 28—Charging that the department is now being run for political purposes, five veteran firemen have resigned in protest against the recent ousting of Chief Walter Swap after 15 years of service, it was learned today.

The men who resigned were Selectman Albert E. Elwell, a fireman for 16 years; Fred Spencer, George Silk, Austin Sharples and Rudolph Currier, Currier, a former Boston newspaperman, was the first official fire department photographer in this state.

Also ousted with Chief Swap was his brother, John, a member of the board of fire engineers.

Selectman Elwell charged that the fire department is being wrecked by two other members of the board of selectmen, Chairman Francis Bartlett and Ralph Woodworth, for "political purposes."

Recently Bartlett and Woodworth voted to oust Police Chief Kenneth Berkenbush and put Russell T. Noyes, a fireman, in his place.

HITLER REPLY SCOFFS AT PEACE PACTS

"I have never made any demands that would interfere with Great Britain's interests," he declared, but a moment later he stated that he considered the German-Polish agreement of last year operative as a result of England's mutual aid pact with Warsaw.

"On the basis that the naval pact has been abrogated," he said, I have therefore resolved to send a communication to this effect to Boston.

'WAR UNNECESSARY'

"The Polish problem," Hitler said, "can be settled without recourse to war."

"Poland," he admitted, "must have an outlet to the sea."

"In the interest of Europe as well as world peace, I am doing all in my power to settle the problem of the Polish Corridor peacefully.

"Just as Poland needs a corridor to the sea, Germany needs a pathway to its possessions. A German pathway to its own territory would have no military significance.

"I have explained our position to Poland, but Poland has rejected our suggestions. I have offered Poland a pact for 25 years of peace, but this Poland has rejected. This attitude I do not understand.

"Danzig will never become Polish."

OFFERS POLES SPURNED

He asserted that his offers to Poland had been rejected. These offers, he publicly revealed for the first time were:

Return of Danzig as a free state into the framework of the German Reich; a sovereign German route across the Polish Corridor to East Prussia and a railway line across the Corridor at Germany's disposal; a free harbor at Danzig for Poland; acceptance of present boundaries between the two countries as final; a 25-year non-aggression treaty, and a guarantee of the independence of Slovakia by Germany, Poland and Hungary.

Instead of worrying about Europe, Hitler said President Roosevelt should concern himself with America.

PLEDGE TO U. S.

"We should not let this opportunity pass," he said, "without giving above all to the President of the United States an assurance regarding those territories which should after all give him most cause for anxiousness, namely the United States and other states of the American continent.

"I strongly declare that all assertions being circulated referring in any way to an intended German attack or invasion on certain American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths."

Hitler also expressed regret Britain had not shared [illegible] was not shared [illegible]

"War against Germany is taken for granted in that country," he continued.

"I most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim I have ever made and shall ever make upon England is that for return of our colonies.

"The German government is prepared to give each state named (by President Roosevelt in his peace message) assurances of the sort desired on condition of absolute reciprocity, provided that the state wishes it itself and addresses to Germany a request for such assurance, together with appropriate proposals."

which have since been lost, long before the American continent was even discovered and settled by white men.

"When 21 years ago the bloody World War ended, there was a fervent hope in millions of minds that peace, common sense and justice would reward the people who had suffered from the terrible scourge of conflict and make them forever happy.

"I say, regardless of the statements of historians, that all of the people were not guilty of this terrible tragedy. Even if in some countries some politicians are still living who could be held responsible for this cruelest slaughter of all time the great mass of fighting soldiers in all countries may perhaps be pitied, but cannot be held responsible for those events.

SOLDIERS DIDN'T HATE

"Then the people all have a claim upon peace for reasons of justice, but all of these millions were cheated of peace.

"Even for the victors, the effect of the peace treaties was disastrous. It was a misfortune created by the men who decided politics but who had not fought the war.

"Soldiers themselves did not know hatred, but the politicians who saved their own precious skins from the horrors of war, suddenly turned into madmen and assaulted mankind.

"Hatred, maliciousness and lack of reason were the intellectual fathers of the Versailles Treaty."

F.D.R. Sleeps Through Talk

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 28 (INS) — President Roosevelt slumbered this morning while Chancellor Adolf Hitler gave his answer to democracy's plea for guaranteed peace.

It was 6 a. m. in the early Hudson river dawn when Hitler's voice first came over short-wave radio. Hyde Park house was fast asleep awaiting the arrival of Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha late this afternoon.

Come wake may from Hitler, Mr. Roosevelt had served advance notice that his speech opening the New York World's Fair on Sunday would constitute no answer to the German leader.

termination in our nation that we could never accept them.

"There is no line in any speech ever made by me in which I have assumed any other attitude toward the previously-mentioned nations than I have just restated in the same way. There is no line in any speech I have ever made which expressed anything different with regard to other cases that has not been confirmed by practical action."

TRIBUTE TO CZECHS

Reviewing the absorption of Austria he said he always had intended to join the native land with Germany.

Reviewing the total conquest of Czechoslovakia over Bohemia and Moravia Hitler asserted that these originally belonged to Germany. He paid tribute to the Czech people for their "German patriotism and their dueffing class with the Germans in the past. Czechs and Germans had equal respect . . .

Declaring that Czechoslovakia constituted a grave threat to German military security in the event of war, particularly in air warfare, where Hitler said:

"If Germany decided to annihilate this landing ground for hostile bombers it did so not out of hatred for the Czech peoples.

"If the democratic midwives who helped Czechoslovakia to its birth had succeeded in their aims the German Reich certainly would have not been annihilated, but it might have suffered severely. The Czech people, however, would have sustained a much more terrific catastrophe.

"I am happy that we succeeded in avoiding this central European cataclysm, thanks to our own moderation and thanks to the common sense of the Czech people, although much to the annoyance of democratic nations."

Hitler explicitly assured the Czechs that they would be given an opportunity to develop their own culture.

MUNICH 'PEACE' PACT

"If the cry 'never another Munich' is raised today," he said, "this simply confirms the fact that a peaceful solution of affairs appears to be the most fateful thing that could occur in the eyes of the war-mongers. They are sorry that no blood has been shed—not their blood, of course, for these agitators are never found where a shot is fired, only where money is made.

"The blood is that of many nameless soldiers . . .

"Without Munich, that is to say without the interference of the countries of western Europe, solution of the Czech problem, if it had ever grown acute, would have been the simplest thing in the world."

Pointing out that the Munich pact resulted in return of the Sudetenland to the Reich, Hitler emphasized that point . . . [illegible] . . . [illegible] . . . [illegible]

the solution which Germany found right was wrong. However, it is certain that this solution is not subject to English supervision and criticism. Bohemia and Moravia, as remnants of Czechoslovakia, have nothing whatever to do with the Munich agreement.

"English measures with regard to Ireland, whether they be right or wrong, are not subject to German supervision or criticism."

OFFERS PEACE TREATIES

Referring to the various nations mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt in his peace appeal, he said:

"The German government is prepared to give each state named (by President Roosevelt) assurances of the sort desired on condition of absolute reciprocity, provided that the state wishes it itself and addresses to Germany a request for such assurance, together with appropriate proposals.

"As for duration of these agreements, Germany is willing to make terms with each individual state in accordance with the wishes of that state.

"All the nations mentioned by Roosevelt have replied negatively (to the German query as to whether they considered themselves menaced). Some of them did so strongly.

"Concerning a number of states included in Roosevelt's list, this question can probably be regarded as settled from the very start, since we are either allied with them or at least united by close ties of friendship."

Alluding to Prime Minister Chamberlain's inference that the Munich pact has been annulled, the Fuehrer said:

"If he concludes that I have broken it, I shall proceed accordingly. During my whole political activity, I have always expounded the idea of close friendship and collaboration between Germany and England.

"I have found innumerable others of like mind. They joined with me in my attitude in this matter because the desire for Anglo-German friendship and cooperation conforms not merely to the sentiments which result from the racial origins of our two peoples but also from my realization that the existence of the British Empire is important to all mankind."

Alluding to Prime Minister Chamberlain's inference that the Munich pact has been annulled, the Fuehrer said:

"I have found innumerable others of like mind. They joined with me in my attitude in this matter because the desire for Anglo-German friendship and cooperation conforms not merely to the sentiments which result from the racial origins of our two peoples but also from my realization that the existence of the British Empire is important to all mankind."

Hitler declared [illegible] considered [illegible] unmistakable value in [illegible] economic life.

FRIENDSHIP IMPOSSIBLE

"Nevertheless," he added, "I regard a lasting friendship among the Anglo-Saxon peoples impossible if the other side fails to recognize that there are Germans as well as British interests, that not only is preservation of the British Empire and the meaning and purpose of the lives of Britishers, but also that for Germans the freedom and preservation of the German Reich is their life purpose.

"A genuine and lasting friendship between the two nations is conceivable only as a basis of mutual regard."

If [illegible] looked upon as a [illegible] Fuehrer said, "then our love and friendly feeling toward England have been wasted.

"I have heard the prime minister's statement that he is unable to trust German assurances," he said. "Under the circumstances, I consider it a matter of course that we no longer wish or expect him and the British people to bear the burden of a situation which is only conceivable in an atmosphere of mutual confidence."

DISARMAMENT VIEWS

[illegible]

"I do not want to be an obstacle in the way of disarmament discussions at which Roosevelt intends to be present. I ask Roosevelt, however, to appeal to others first in view of the practical experiences behind me."

[illegible]

"It is an unbearable burden for world economic relations to suffer a boycott agitation which eliminates certain nations from the market.

"It is possible that some countries for ideological reasons believe that it would be a great service if you, Mr. Roosevelt, with your great influence, would remove the barriers to free world trade, beginning in the United States first of all.

"We would appreciate you, Mr. Roosevelt, as the successor to Woodrow Wilson, to devote yourself to redeeming Wilson's promises, on the basis of which Germany laid down her arms. Wilson solemnly pledged his word that the German colonial claims would receive just examination.

"It would be a noble act if Mr. Roosevelt would redeem Wilson's promises in the interests of improvement of the economic conditions of the world."

HINTS WAR INEVITABLE

Voluntary [illegible] naval armament [illegible] limitation, [illegible] war between Germany and England would never again be possible.

"I wish this conviction were alive in me today," he declared. "However, I am now compelled to state that the policy of England—both official and unofficial—leaves no doubt that such a conviction is no longer shared by London. On the contrary, the opinion certainly prevails that no matter what the conflict in which Germany might some day be entangled, Britain will always take sides against her.

for granted in that country.

most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim that I have ever made and shall continue to make upon England is that for return of our colonies.

"I have always made clear that this would never become the cause for military conflict. I have always held that the English, to whom these colonies are of no value, would one day understand the German situation and value German friendship above possession of territories which while yielding no profits whatever to them are of vital importance to Germany.

NEW ANGLO PACT POSSIBLE

"Since England today, both through its press and officialdom, upholds the view that Germany should be opposed under all circumstances and confirms this by its policy of encirclement, the basis for existence of the Anglo-German navy treaty has been removed.

"Should the British government, however, wish to enter once more into negotiations with Germany on this problem, no one would be happier than I to be able to come to a clear, straightforward understanding."

Discussing international trade, the Fuehrer said:

"The so-called democratic statesmen look upon it as one of their greatest achievements to exclude a nation from its markets, for example by boycotts to starve it out. I need not assure you that I am convinced that a nation would rather fight than starve under such circumstances."

HITS WAR HYSTERIA

The Fuehrer praised the victory of Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain "where whole villages and towns were literally butchered under the silent and benevolent patronage of western European and American democratic apostles."

Talking of world nervousness and war hysteria, he said:

"There has been a spread of nervous hysteria in a nation which already considers the landing of Martian invaders within the realm of possibility.

"The real purpose of this, however, is to prepare American public opinion to regard the British policy of encirclement as necessary and consequently to support it. Should the worst come, the German people can go about their business in perfect tranquility. Their frontiers are guarded by the best army in the history of Germany. The air above them is protected by the most powerful air fleet. Our coasts have been rendered unassailable by any enemy power."

CLOSE ITALIAN-JAP TIE

Declaring that any attempt to [illegible] the Rome-Berlin axis is [illegible], Hitler said:

"To create still closer relations among Germany, Italy and Japan is the constant aim of the German government. We regard existence and maintenance of the independence and freedom of these three great powers as the strongest factor for preservation of true human culture, practical civilization and true order in the world.

"Mr. Roosevelt, I fully understand that the vastness of your nation and the immense wealth of your country allows you to feel responsible for the history of the whole world and for the history of all nations.

"I, sir, have a place in a much more modest and a smaller sphere. You have 130,000,000 people on 9½ million square kilometres. You possess a country with enormous riches and all mineral resources, fertile enough to feed half a billion people and provide them with all necessities.

"I once took over a state which was faced with complete ruin, thanks to its trust in the promises of the rest of the world and to the bad regime of democratic governments. In this state there were roughly 150 people to each square kilometre—not 15 as in America.

"The fertility of our country cannot be compared with yours.

CHAOS IN GERMANY

"Billions of marks in German savings, accumulated in gold and foreign exchange over a period of years of peace, were squeezed out of us. We lost our colonies. In 1933 my country had 7,000,000 unemployed and a few million workers on half time. The peasants were sinking into poverty. Trade had been ruined and commerce destroyed.

"In short, there was general chaos.

"Since then, Mr. Roosevelt, I have been able to fulfil only one simple task. I cannot feel myself responsible for the fate of the world which took no interest in the pitiful fate of my own people.

"I have conquered chaos in Germany, re-established order, increased production in all branches of national economy, produced substitutes for numerous materials which we lacked, smoothed the way for new inventions, developed traffic, caused mighty roads to be built and canals to be dug, and called into being new factories.

HAS REARMED NATION

"At the same time I have endeavored to further the education and culture of my people. I succeeded in finding work once more for the whole seven million unemployed.

"As a precaution against the threats of another world, I not only united the German people politically but I also re-armed them. I also endeavored to destroy page by page the treaty which with its 448 articles contains the vilest oppression that any people had ever been asked to suffer.

"I have brought back to the Reich the provinces stolen from us in 1919. I have led back to their native country millions of Germans who were torn from us and were in misery. I have re-established the historic unity of the German nation.

"And, Mr. Roosevelt, I have endeavored to attain all this without spilling blood and without bringing my people and consequently others into the misery of war."

Referring to President Roosevelt's assertion that a major war would hurt the victor as much as the vanquished, Hitler said:

"No one knows this better than the German people as a result of the Versailles treaty but I do not believe that every conflict must have disastrous consequences for the whole surrounding world, provided the whole world is not systematically drawn into [illegible] a conflict by means of a network of nebulous pacts and obligations."

Referring to the President's declaration that the use of European events therefore common rule, he said:

"As far as Germany is concerned, I know nothing of this kind of threat to other nations, although I read every day in democratic newspapers lies about such threats.

PEACE RESPONSIBILITY

"As a politician, I have always expressed the conviction that all nations would suffer by war. I did this for twenty years, during a time when the statesmen of America could not bring themselves to make the same admission . . .

"If it is true that the leaders of nations are responsible for the preservation of peace, then it is punishable neglect if the leaders of nations are not capable of controlling newspapers which are agitating for war. I am unable to understand why these responsible leaders, instead of cultivating diplomatic relations among nations, make them more difficult and disturb them by recalling ambassadors without any reason."

Regarding conferences, Hitler said:

"If your belief, Mr. Roosevelt, that all problems can be solved at a conference table is true, then all nations including the United States have been led either by blind men or criminals during the last seven or eight hundred years.

ASKS ABOUT COURT

"Statesmen have made history not at conference tables, but with the strength of their peoples. The freedom of North America was not achieved at a conference table any more than the conflict between the North and South (the Civil War) was decided there, to say nothing of the innumerable struggles which finally led to subjugation of the American continent as a whole.

"I would be grateful to Mr. Roosevelt if he would explain to the world what a new world court would be like, who would be the judges, how they would be selected, what responsibility they would have and to whom they would be held accountable for their verdict."

"War Maker" Painted in Red On White House

WASHINGTON, April 28 (INS)—The words "War Maker" were crudely painted in red on the white gate pillar to the west entrance of the White House executive offices before dawn today.

The same words were scrawled on the side of the State Department building, across the street from the White House.

Early morning strollers notified the White House staff and the markings were erased.

GIVE MIDDLE-AGED WORKERS A BREAK, ROOSEVELT'S PLEA

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 28 (INS)—President Roosevelt today called upon the nation's employers to give middle-aged workers—"those over forty"—a break on the matter of jobs.

At his Hudson River home he turned aside from pressing duties to issue a statement which he said was intended particularly to direct the attention of American employers to the plight of the middle-aged worker.

"I should like to ask employers throughout the country to give special consideration to this problem of the middle aged worker," declared the Presidential proclamation in part.

'Citizen of the World'

Bishop Spellman Has Wide Vision

He went to Rome an eager-eyed young student . . . He came back a bishop, a world-traveler, conscious of the peoples of the world, and of their needs,—a true shepherd with vast knowledge of the needs of, not only his own flock, but of all flocks in creation.

So he returned to find that his friends were as eager to do him honor as had been those in high places in the Church of Rome.

By JACK CONWAY

Copyright, 1939, by the Boston Evening American, Inc.

While Bishop Spellman rejoiced in his homecoming, he was sad at heart in losing personal contact with the host of close friends he had made through the years at Rome and throughout Italy.

He loved those scenes and those friends. They had widened [illegible] perspective so that he was [illegible] drawn from a [illegible] never of experience. Contrasts [illegible] that the world and people [illegible]. Some of his writings at that time have been preserved, so that [illegible] may easily gain from them a vivid picture of [illegible] known as [illegible]

TELLS SYMPATHY

His Excellency [illegible]

"I wish to communicate to my friends some of the admiration, some of the sincere respect that I have for things European, and something of the sympathy which I feel for those Europeans who are struggling for a living and for peace in exactly the same manner as so many of my fellow countrymen.

"Being a 100 per cent American to my mind does not signify that one must believe that we Americans have or that we should have any monopoly of righteousness or intellectual prowess or of accomplishments in all departments of human activity.

"It does not mean, in my opinion, the despising or belittling of other nations or of the men or achievements of other nationalities. To my way of thinking, such an attitude is not American; it is decidedly un-American.

"What is American and what is patriotic is, as I understand Americanism and patriotism, and what is at the same time true Christianity, the engendering of the practice of brotherly love and of brotherly respect and of brotherly sympathy and of brotherly helpfulness.

CITES NEEDED QUALITIES

"This love, respect, sympathy and hopefulness should be implanted and cultivated in the home and in the school. Gradually and inevitably these virtues would infiltrate and extend throughout communities and embrace the whole world.

"Such improvement can be brought about by the injection of a little more of the spirit of Christianity, by the subtraction of selfishness, and by the addition of a little more common usage of that which is so uncommon—common sense.

"The reapportionment of these elements in individuals and in peoples would make America, and Europe and the world, a happier, healthier and better place in which to live."

With this discerning statement one would agree. His Excellency has placed his finger on the sore spot in society at large. He has seen as a constructive program that all men could accept. It remains for him to [illegible] the world [illegible].

Perhaps nothing could have brought His Excellency greater pleasure and the greatest expressions extended to him in his homecoming than a message of appreciation from the board of selectmen of his native town of Whitman.

I don't see how one finds in such a state as the pride and joy with which a few town officials have accepted the appointment of their native son to the episcopacy. The specimen was:

May the board of selectmen of your home town of Whitman take this opportunity to express to you on behalf of your many friends in the town of Whitman our congratulations on your recent appointment as auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Boston.

What a pleasure it must have been to your father and mother to have their son so signally honored, when this honor has been bestowed on you after hard work and extreme effort.

"May you have great success in furthering your work in your chosen vocation."

[illegible] was then presented [illegible] the [illegible] town records of Whitman.

The young bishop is launched on a busy career at home . . . Thousands of little ones pass under his hands as he administers the Sacrament of Confirmation. He is made a Knight of Malta, a new honor from the Vatican. Follow this amazing life story in its sixth installment tomorrow.

Moscow to New York

—This, the shortest York is the schedu en route to the World's Fair. They expect to arrive in 25 hours

MOSCOW, April 28 (AP)—Brigadier-General Vladimir Kokkinaki reported at 6:30 p. m. tonight (10:30 a. m., E.S.T.) that his sea-spanning monoplane was approaching the coast of Greenland, more than halfway to the goal of his attempt to fly non-stop from Moscow to New York

KEEPS UP TO SCHEDULE

BULLETIN

Word was flashed to [illegible] this afternoon from a New York radio station that the Soviet Moscow-to-New York plane would spell the [illegible] at [illegible] E.S.T.

The message received by the radio station on Flood Bennett Field, which has been in constant contact with the plane, read:

Over southern Greenland [illegible] E.S.T. on schedule. Good speed but headwinds and storms as [illegible] Expect to sight mainland North America [illegible] next check. [illegible] E.S.T.

Preparations were being made at East Boston and Bangor, Me., to refuel the giant Russian plane should it become necessary.

WEATHER IS PERFECT

[illegible] the Soviet built plane, the same in which Kokkinaki flew nonstop from Moscow to Vladivostok last June, a distance of 4722 miles, in 24 hours and 36 minutes, is the low-wing type, with retractable landing gear and dual controls.

Its name is painted on the underwing surface in Slavic characters.

100 Murders Laid To 'Death Kiss' Ring

PHILADELPHIA, April 28 (AP)—A belief that the number of persons killed by Philadelphia's murder-for-insurance ring ultimately will surpass all previous estimates—some as high as 100—was voiced by investigators today as they predicted at least 25 persons would be under arrest or sought as fugitives by the end of next week.

Thirteen persons already face homicide charges. Nine are unler arrest and warrants have been issued for the other four, including three accused as ringleaders—a New York convict, a man described by Police Captain James A. Kelly as a "faith healer," and an alluring widow with a "kiss of death."

The possible scope of the ring's activities widened with disclosure that the plotters used violence, in addition to poison, to kill their victims. This disclosure prompted start of an investigation of every unexplained death by violence which has occurred within the last five years among racial groups where the ring was known to operate.

"We had thought there were somewhere between 30 and 50 deaths directly traceable to the poisoners," one investigator said.

Bostonians who sacrificed an hour's sleep to hear the broadcast of Chancellor Hitler's address to the Reichstag expressed widely divergent views.

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, father-in-law of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and commissioner of the Boston Port Authority, said: "I heard the last hour of the speech. His tone seemed generally pacific. I think he has left the door open for a peaceful settlement."

ALVAN T. FULLER, Governor of Massachusetts, said: "I think Hitler's speech indicated that he will try to keep to the policy of agreements he has pursued so far. I think President Roosevelt's appeal was useful in so far as it served to bring Hitler's policy out in the open. I hope that this will cause people in this country understand the need for collective security against Fascist aggression."

U.S. SOLONS SEE WAR

CARLSON: "It's a declaration of war."

CULLEN: "The speech was disconcerting. I still think European frontiers can be settled by peaceful methods. We can stay out of threatened European war if we act prudently."

LUNDEEN: "The speech confirms me in my resolve never to vote an American drop of blood or an American dollar into a European war."

GILLETTE: "Hitler's speech was not an answer to Mr. Roosevelt."

MRS. JOSEPHINE ROMALDO QUESTIONED

"Murder for Insurance"—Suspects in "poison ring" are seized by New York and Philadelphia police, who expect to prove more than 100 persons lost lives in "murder for insurance" plot. Mrs. Carina Favato is shown leaving cell in Philadelphia City Hall . . . In questioning she admitted poisoning mate for insurance. Others shown are named as plotters.

THE $148.19 per pupil cost of education in Boston is exceeded only in New York's record of expenditure of $148.19.

The Taxpayers Alliance [illegible] expenses in eleven American cities with populations above 500,000 makes this disclosure.

Chicago economizes the conservative's small sum of $103 for each student. Detroit follows with $141.27. And Baltimore "gets by" with $85.36.

For Each Child, Taxpayers Provide $140.15.

The Alliance asks questions. It wants to know:—

Why the amount of money required to operate Boston schools continues to increase in spite of the fact that during the past four years the total number of pupils declined 10,516?

Why, in view of the decrease in enrollment, operating costs could not have fallen some $300,000, instead of soaring more than $650,000?

What do YOU think?

"THE HIRED GIRL must have a place where she can entertain her boy friend, the Federal Office of Education advises architects and home builders.

Having investigated the 'servant problem' in thirty-seven States, this governmental bureau recommends that the average maid is obliged to hold social court everywhere and anywhere, from the back porch to the library. It therefore adds

"With the facilities for entertaining company as limited and irregular as indicated, it is readily understandable that the entertainment factor is a major one in influencing the attitude toward household service.

Obviously, the Federal Office of Educaton has not viewed the "servant problem" in Boston and other New England cities.

Wages from $12 to $17.50 a week are paid. Laundry, food, sleeping quarters, uniforms and an assortment of [illegible] are FREE.

But girls generally frown on domestic jobs.

WATER CURES CANCER, Dr. G. Garcia member of President Roosevelt's disease control council, informs the National Academy of Science.

Distilled liquid, administered several times a day following X ray treatment, causes infected cells to swell up and die.

This hopeful news directs attention to the work of the Boston Cancer Control Committee, which strives to teach the public that an ounce of prevention is indeed worth a pound of cure when this malady is concerned.

MRS. ROGERS

"Not all cases are curable," says the Committee, "and when arising in certain situations such as the brain or oesophagus, the outlook is almost hopeless, but fortunately these forms are relatively rare.

"In early treatment lies the only hope of cure. And if individuals will seek competent medical advice for any suspicious symptom, many more will be cured than is now the case."

That the Boston Control group is right is indicated by the findings of Tufts College Medical School, which, in a report soon to be released, will say:

"With early diagnosis and timely treatment, cures are recorded in 95 per cent of skin cancers, 84 per cent of lip cancers, 75 per cent of breast cancers, and high percentages of other deep-seated types of this dread disease."

Also important in the consideration of cancer are the educational campaigns conducted by the Women's Field Army, locally headed by Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell. The humanitarian efforts of this organization inspired the United States Congress to designate April as "Cancer Control Month."

WASHINGTON, April 28. Tension at the [illegible] reached a crisis on two fronts during the early part of the week. Foreign and domestic fronts. The two were getting to be almost one front.

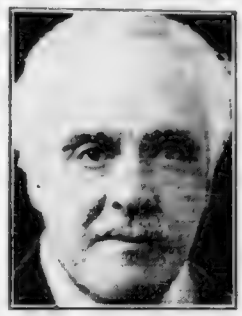
The reason was that certain conservative Democrat [illegible] were informed by [illegible] that they had advance information that Hitler's reply to A. Roosevelt would not be [illegible] of the celebrated B.J. Parry [illegible] the song who if will be ready. Just said no more but slammed the door.

It is generally believed almost unanimously believed in Congress that no amount of pressure from within this government or without it, could precipitate America into a foreign war over the spoils of the last war.

THE GREED of the European democracies in dividing up the spoils of Germany and Austria, in the World War, has become proverbial.

Arthur Balfour carried a pocketful of secret pacts when he came to Washington in 1917.

Under the Pact of London, Italy



LATE LORD BALFOUR

was to have the strategic part of Albania -to which she has just helped herself, after 24 years— the government of the Dodecanese Islands, and a "cut" in the cut-up of Turkey.

Japan and Great Britain divided the German possessions in the Far East and the Pacific. The latter Germany had BOUGHT [illegible] FROM SPAIN [illegible]

WITH THE PASSAGE of time, and a sobering down, the situation has been clarified. Washington saw more clearly. Once more conservatives in Congress breathed more easily.

They believed that the European war issue if war should come - would be presented in such a way that America would see her way to stay out.

This would leave unclouded by foreign complications the great domestic issue, the preservation of the American tradition of government, for settlement in the approaching elections of 1940.

You Can be Beautiful

Pamper Face With Balms

By ARLINE GOULD

LIKE Christmas, the circus and springtime . . . there's a really amazing beauty special which comes just once a year and it certainly is a gift to your beauty desires if you have a dry, sensitive skin.

It is an unguent cream, just chock full of rare balms imported from the Near East, where that wise gal Cleo found gold and beauty ingredients [illegible] dinarily you'd pay a good deal over four dollars a jar, but for a short time it's going to be available for only two dollars!

CREAM IS RICH

Though the origins of its softening rejuvenating oils sound mysterious, the cream itself is rich, ivory white textured stuff with nothing mysterious about the way it goes after lines that are caused by excessive dryness.

Herbal extracts figure a lot in its concocting and they do the work of vitalizing [illegible]

All too often, a dry skin is pampered with bland cream that the result is of keeping it [illegible] Lotions which are apt to be drying as ever-ready [illegible] of [illegible] irritating [illegible] extracts in the cream [illegible] unbeatable.

IT'S HAND-WHIPPED

This is one of the few creams that can claim to be hand-whipped and just attention to a [illegible] formula which was evolved by a French chemist.

So concentrated and rich is the cream that you need but the merest film of it overnight. No objectionable, gooey and unattractive effect just a soft sheen that's anything but unbecoming.

Cooking Goodies For Baskets

FROM MARTHA LEE'S FRIDAY MORNING BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX—11:30 A. M.

One of the loveliest of old customs is making the rounds with May [illegible] hung upon the door knobs of [illegible] homes. When we were [illegible] little ceremony of [illegible] to our friends [illegible] and where was a nicer spot [illegible] than [illegible] all was coming home to surprise mother with the prettiest basket of all.

Sometimes we filled them with flowers which we ourselves had picked, but soon we found that the most welcome baskets of all were those filled with home-made candies. By the time we grew old enough to hold a spoon, candy making for May Day was an established custom.

Selected for their sprightliness and springtime mood of something special are the sweet teeth "appeasers" we offer today. They're tempters teasers too!

Especially if those baskets find their way to the nursery, this apple candy is a sure winner.

APPLE DELIGHT

4 cups apple pulp
4 cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons gelatin
1 cup cold water
3 cups nut meats, chopped
¼ teaspoon rose water or ½ teaspoon orange extract

For apple pulp cut apples and cook until tender. Put through a sieve. To the pulp add sugar and salt and cook until very thick so that when dropped from a spoon it retains its shape. Remove from the stove and add gelatin that has been soaked in cold water. Mix well, making sure that the gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Add nut meats and rose water or orange extract when mixture is slightly cool. Pour into buttered pans, spreading to about ½ inch thick. When firm, cut into pieces and roll in powdered sugar.

Fashion Flash

Contrast and color are the keynotes of summer sports things. And note the contrast comes in!

Lots of sports frocks [illegible] may tell us, to [illegible] them badminton dresses and it's all right by us, in silk jersey or fine poplins are pretty spectacularly smart. Your game should be good. Or maybe that's just the kind we are. You might do better in every way if your game were amusingly un-good.

Lots of sports things have hoods, and a fine thing, too. A nice camel hair coat, slenderly fitted with military looking belt, has a hood. Nothing better when you're standing on a windy deck. Travelers going by water route to San Francisco, please note.

Camilla

by Anne Stretton, who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

"You needn't stay in for me next week, Evelyn," Camilla said. "I shan't come any more."

Who's Who and What's Happened:

CAMILLA and MARK might have come into a fine inheritance if their father, a famous but eccentric writer, had not neglected to marry their mother. When he died, he left no provision for his children, but a life interest in the house to

GLADYS, who had no maternal affection at all for Camilla and Mark. And he willed the lands of Dore to

SIMON, a cousin. Simon managed the estate efficiently, and was like a brother to Camilla and Mark. They had no idea he was in love until the day he brought his fiancee,

EVELYN, to Dore. Although Evelyn disapproved, on Mark's sixteenth birthday, Simon gave Dore to him. After Simon and Evelyn were married, Mark went away to school and Camilla met

STEPHEN FULLER, who was staying with friends near Dore. They took walks together, meeting outside her home. To her horror, Camilla discovered her mother was drinking. Soon after this Stephen told her he loved her. Coming home unexpectedly, Simon discovered Camilla's love affair, and declared he would not allow her to be married at her age. He forbade her to see Stephen for a year. Meanwhile, Stephen told

OLIVIA, his hostess' niece, whom he had loved before he met Camilla, of his engagement. Knowing Camilla's background, she was shocked

Now Continue:

CHAPTER 23

"WAIT a little, Ste," Olivia's cool voice was saying.

"You'll get over this." Stephen reddened. "I'm not going to try. I've been wretched enough, Olivia. Why shouldn't I have happiness?"

Olivia said: If it's not indiscreet to ask—why such a drastic step? I should have thought that the views of David Daggon's daughter on marriage would have been the same as yours—approached, perhaps, from another angle."

"I think they are. But she's very young, you know."

"Yes. I suppose if you'd suggested anything but marriage you might have had Simon Winlre at the George with a horsewhip."

Stephen shrugged his shoulders, smiling a little.

"Yes, I suppose so. His views on that sort of thing would certainly be Victorian. But I hope you don't think I would propose marriage, just to avoid a tiff with Winlre, if I wasn't in love."

TOO YOUNG

Olivia didn't speak for a moment. Then she said: "And so this was what you really wanted all the time; wild roses and apple-blossom . . . How old is she?"

"Seventeen."

"She's too young to marry, Stephen."

Stephen left the fire. He crossed the room and, for a few seconds, stared absently at the wall where Olivia's brush had streaked it.

"I don't know about that. Anyway—I'm going to marry her."

"Will her cousin consent?"

"No. At least not for two years. I'm not going to wait two years. He's not her legal guardian."

"I see. So you're going to make a runaway match?"

"Yes."

"Romantic Ste!" Olivia put her head back and looked at him. "You know—I can't get used to seeing you in this new light . . . But you have come to me as an old friend for my blessing?"

Angrily, Stephen jerked around.

"Olivia, why must you laugh at me?"

She smiled at him.

"My dear—you'll have to do without the blessing. It sticks in my throat . . . What will you have in common with an uneducated, inexperienced child?"

"You have never met Camilla."

"No. I have only passed her in the road . . . You're very silly, Stephen. But I won't try to make you see that; so I won't quarrel with you."

"I have been unhappy. You could have made me happy, and you wouldn't."

Olivia laughed.

"Are you trying to fix on me the responsibility for your elopement?"

"No . . . But I'd like you to wish me happiness, Olivia."

"You're rather sentimental, aren't you, my dear? . . . But certainly I wish you happiness—every possible happiness."

Camilla entered her pleasant room in Mrs. Arkwright's house. She had returned from a day spent, as she always spent Wednesdays, at Simon's house in London, and she was feeling angry and depressed.

She crossed to the window and, pushing aside the chintz curtains, looked down, over a planetree whose leaves still lingered, into the dim spaces of Rutland Gate. In her mind there was a picture of Evelyn's modern drawing-room. She thought of the hours that she had spent there that day and on other Wednesdays.

"No, I won't go back there," she thought. And then, reluctantly, she reflected on how Simon would receive that decision. She drew the curtain again and stood for a moment, staring at its shiny, flowered surface, her hands thrust into the pockets of her new coat and skirt. "Well, I'll say—it's no good, Simon. I can't keep my temper' . . . And I won't go there again." Simon had not been at home. Well, naturally, he wouldn't sit indoors all day with two women.

Having found a comfortable home for her with Mrs. Arkwright he considered, as Camilla knew, that on the days which she spent in his house, she was Evelyn's business rather than is.

Last Wednesday, however, he had ridden with her in Richmond Park, and three Wednesdays ago she had motored into the country with him and Evelyn. If only he had never been there when she went to Charles Street — Evelyn was unpleasant enough when he was away.

WOMAN VS. WOMAN

Today, as usual, Evelyn had barely spoken to snub her; and, during tea, one of Evelyn's friends had rung up, and Evelyn had been careful to let Camilla hear how much she disliked having her on her hands.

". . . Yes, my dear . . . She hangs about here till 6 o'clock . . . Yes, every Wednesday . . ."

"Well, that settles it," Camilla had thought, as she watched her cousin's wife standing, conscious and drooping, at the telephone.

After tea, when it was time to go, she approached the sofa on which Evelyn lay reading.

"Good-bye, Evelyn. I'm going now."

Evelyn had glanced up for a moment.

Camilla had felt then, not only angry but unexpectedly depressed. Suddenly, she had wished that things might be different between her and Simon's wife. But it was useless to wish, she supposed. People don't change.

"You needn't stay in for me next week, Evelyn, or any other week. I shan't come any more."

"What do you mean?"

"Just what I've said. I am not coming—that's all."

"Will you tell Simon that?" Evelyn had asked. "If he was here you'd be more polite, wouldn't you?"

"And if Simon was here, you'd be pretty different, too." And then, after a pause, Camilla had added, surprising herself:

CAMILLA LONELY

"I don't want to be rude, Evelyn. But I do hate coming here. I can't see why you need to be so beastly. I don't want to bother you. Why don't you go out, if you want to?"

"You're a little injured innocent, aren't you?"

Camilla turned pale, as Mary and [illegible] when they were angry. Well, she had brought that retort on herself. It had been silly to make any attempt—it had sounded as though she thought herself pa[illegible]. Pathetic! She jerked her head and with an effort, put back the words that slid so readily to her tongue.

"You've got nothing to complain of," Evelyn said. "We have you here week after week. You'd have no home to go if we didn't."

"All right. Goodbye."

It wasn't reasonable. Camilla thought now, to feel so depressed. She didn't have to live with Evelyn, and she was happy with Mrs. [illegible], for whom she liked.

[illegible] of her own age had, owing to illness, not yet appeared. Still, she didn't mind that: she would she thought have felt more [illegible] of another girl than of her [illegible] hostess. Christmas, [illegible] holidays with Mark, were [illegible] a week or two away).

She had them to look forward to, and whatever Simon might say, she had the happiness of knowing that she was engaged to Stephen.

She moved away from the window and, went over to the fire, and stood, looking at the two photographs on the chimneypiece. Mark gazed back at her with a slight smile.

He would have looked like that, she thought, when he sat down to answer her letter about Stephen. She wondered whether he would like Stephen, but, as always when she tried to think of them together, she felt blank. Simon had said that Stephen wasn't "his sort," and perhaps Mark would think that, too . . . "When you're older, you'll get married."

She remembered Mark's words, and a little flash of amusement lit her thoughts. Well, she was trying her best, and it was Simon who was standing in the path and wouldn't let her marry.

Simon's photograph, which she had rescued years ago from the waste-paper basket, looked away, over her shoulder. It had been taken in 1917, after three years of war, and the face was drawn with fatigue. It was very like him. Impatience and quick temper showed in slightly knit brows, and the firm line of the mouth contradicted them.

But Camilla didn't read these traits in her cousin's features. She only wished, as she had sometimes wished before, that the photograph had shown him in less uncompromising mood. She turned away.

It was funny, this little, desolate feeling, which, since that conversation with Evelyn, she couldn't quite shake off. But it was depressing to know that anyone disliked one so much. And to know that one was a nuisance to Simon and that one would see less and less of him.

Accustomed to freedom, how long will Camilla stand for this lonely, colorless existence? Don't miss tomorrow's absorbing chapter.

BOSTONIANS strolling down Fifth avenue this week meet so many familiar faces that they must have to pinch themselves to remember they are not on Boylston street . . . Mrs. John Wells Farley of Needham, and Mrs. Frederick L. Dabney of neighboring Dover, are both seeking a bit of diversion in Gotham, and Mrs. George W. W. Brewster, Jr., a recent bride, of Commonwealth avenue, has gone over to join her mother, Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson of Chicago for a brief visit . . . The T. Jefferson Coolidges are making New York's Ritz-Carlton their temporary headquarters . . .

The Value Belt does your suspecting scientifically

THE price tag says only, "Silk Stockings . . . 59c pr." Price tags tell even less than daisies. Yet silk stockings arouse more suspicion than almost anything else you buy.

So you think you're super-suspicious! Well the VALUE BELT has a whole testing laboratory full of expert suspectors. They question with chemicals and machines. With fiendish skill they make runs, snags and holes. They question the gauge, look for guilty "rings," grill so-called "grenadine twists," doubt the silk threads, suspect the dyes. So, when you see a price tag on a pair of silk stockings in a VALUE BELT store, you know those stockings are amply worth 59c or whatever the price.

X-ray any price tag in the VALUE BELT and discover the same merciless laboratory prying and probing. Merchants of the VALUE BELT spend millions annually to find fault before instead of after you buy. That makes all your shopping in the VALUE BELT better shopping.

Austen Lake:

Joe McCarthy--One Against the World

JOE McCARTHY LICKED DOWN THE LOOSE flap of his cigar. "The world's against us," he said contentedly, "The world and all seven other clubs in the American League."

AUSTEN LAKE

For a man with as large a load as the two hemispheres on his back, the florid, blocky manager of the New York Yankees seemed serene. "We come to Boston," said Joe hypothetically, "And they throw Lefty Grove against us—their best. We go to Cleveland and they give us Feller and Allen. Wherever the Yankees go the other clubs lead with their aces. We've gotta be good to win pennants."

That makes sense! And why shouldn't the other seven teams train their biggest guns on the Yanks. The Yankee-Newark-Kansas City axis is dominating the American League like Berlin & Rome is bullying Europe. There has to be a coalition of weaker groups to save the World and the World Series from being overwhelmed.

"Honey," scoffed McCarthy, "That ain't the American way. Equal opportunity, that's our slogan. They scream about Ruppert's millions buying whole series of pennants. But what about the Yawkey millions and the Briggs millions and the Bradley millions? Our money ain't any better than theirs. And did they yell 'dollar domination' when Connie Mack—a comparatively poor man, won his three consecutive pennants in '29, '30 and '31. Did they shout for him to bust up his club to make the race more level?"

Through his nostrils McCarthy snorted twin jets of smoke. He was annoyed. "Everywhere I go the papers say 'the Yankees are killing baseball! Bust 'em up for the good of the game.' Did Jack Dempsey kill boxing? Did Man O' War kill racing? Or Bobby Jones kill golf?"

How Good Is McCarthy?

LAST WINTER DURING THE NEW YORK baseball writers' annual biscuit toss, Mickey Cochrane, freshly deposed as Detroit manager, was railing against fortune. "Look't the Yankees," he said. "There's a manager's paradise. McCarthy's in heaven. All he has to do is make out the batting order and pick his pitchers and he's through for the day. The rest of the time he can sit on the bench, smile and draw $40,000."

It was an embittered indictment of the managerial hiring and firing system, not of McCarthy personally. Joe demonstrated that he was a smart, penetrating baseball mind when he brought the Chicago Cubs from nowhere in 1925 and won a pennant in '29. He was a shrewd manager during his seven years at Louisville before that.

"But how can he miss?" the other managers are asking. "Sure I can," asserted Joe. "All that has to happen is for Gehrig to go sour, or DiMaggio hurt his bad knee again, or a couple of the pitchers pull muscles. It happens to some club every year. Look at the White Sox luck. There, through no fault of my own, I wouldn't be a good manager, huh?"

McCarthy has that first and most important requisite. He knows how to handle men, how to keep them welded in a unit rather than an unrelated collection of individuals. And under his Santa Claus mask and the corny, corner-cuddling way that he has of sitting like a human pussy-cat in hotel lobbies, he is a tough tyke with lots of bone in his jaw.

Satisfied? Yes!

THUS BEN CHAPMAN WAS A GOOD outfielder with the Yankees and Johnny Allen was a great pitcher. But neither was a teammate and McCarthy didn't hesitate to get rid of them. The Chapman-Allen deals were typical of his formula, for when he finds he cannot merge a player's private ambition into the general team spirit, he arranges for speedy disposal, having first demonstrated his sternness in this regard when he fired the great Grover Cleveland Alexander from the Chicago Cubs.

"What about Gehrig?" I asked this morning. He replied that he was postponing the day when he might have to bench the once great hitter and, vaguely, that "it might come soon and might not come for a little while longer."

"Oh, I'm satisfied," said the Man with the World on his Back, "I've got enough—I'd be greedy to ask for more. There's a couple of kids in Charley Keller and Buddy Rosar that I haven't shown yet. They could fit right in there today. I've got five starting pitchers and three good relief men. It's a grand old life."

McCarthy was no longer annoyed. He rested his cigar happily between his lips and gazed toward the frescoed ceiling. Yes, McCarthy is in baseball's 7th Heaven. In his business no the angels are higher.

Skiers Continue To Play

By TAP GOODENOUGH

"Spring is here!" But where? Winter sports enthusiasts, instead of baseball fans, are still having their innings. And it looks as though spring skiing will last through May.

A telegram from Roland Peabody in Franconia Notch, N. H. states that there are 80 inches of granular surface snow atop Cannon mountain. Good skiing is reported on the upper half of the trails and slopes. The Aerial Tram operates every week-end.

In Pinkham Notch, N. H., 37 inches of snow remain with good running at higher altitudes. There is also skiing in Rattlesnake Ravine on Cranmore Mountain and on Mount Mansfield, Stowe, Vt.

Don't forget, skiers! You still need to take extra clothing for uncertain conditions. And remember to practice control now more than ever!

Joe DiMaggio Pace Maker for Yanks | College Track Stars Active

BASEBALL'S NO. 1 player is here with the Yankees . . . I refer to Joe DiMaggio who is having one of his greatest years in big league baseball . . . DiMaggio is batting for over .400 . . . Joe will do much to offset any lack by Lou Gehrig.

The success of the Yankees in recent years has been due to DiMaggio more than to any other individual on the club . . . There are persons who contend that Bill Dickey is more valuable to the Yankees than DiMaggio, but I shall continue to string along with the Coast youth . . . DiMaggio has all the qualifications for a great ball player . . . He can hit, field, run the bases and is blessed with baseball instinct.

Baseball instinct is something it is impossible to acquire . . . It is a natural ability that causes the player to do the right thing at the opportune moment of a game . . . Babe Ruth had it, and in his entire career never violated one of the fundamental rules of baseball . . . In the field, Babe from instinct always threw the ball to the right base.

The Yankees were fortunate that DiMaggio bobbed into the picture at a time when Babe Ruth had completed his usefulness as a ball player . . . No club owner or manager could hope to be successful in getting a player capable of filling Ruth's shoes, but the Yankees did get such a star in DiMaggio.

I admire the loyalty of the Yankee players to Lou Gehrig . . . They insist Gehrig is only in a temporary slump, and that he will soon get going on high again . . . Gehrig has been one of the great stars of baseball . . . Quiet, unassuming, always with the interest of the game and his club at heart, baseball fans would like to see Lou carry on successfully for two or three more years.

BABE RUTH

I am still stringing along with the Yankees to win the American League pennant this year . . . DiMaggio's big bat is one of the reasons for my selection.

'Ambers to Meet Fuller Here

LOU AMBERS will take on Sammy Fuller at the Garden in May or June . . . Al Weill intends to keep Ambers active so that he will be razor sharp when he clashes with Henry Armstrong in a bout for the world's lightweight title in New York on August 9 . . . Walter Brown expects the roller skating derby that opens in the Arena on May 8 to click . . . This sport has gone over in a large way in Chicago, Pittsburgh and Detroit.

The Ambers-Armstrong bout was set for August 9 so that it would be some time away from the Joe Louis-Tony Galento contest that takes place in New York on June 28 . . . With proper promotion, it is expected that Louis and Galento, a freak contest, will draw $500,000, while Ambers and Armstrong are expected to do $150,000 to $175,000 . . . For September Mike Jacobs is planning to pit Louis against the victor of the Max Baer-Lou Nova tussle.

Dave Wilson had the daily double combination of Glenbroom and Jane Vito with its payoff of $27.40 . . . Wilson continues to give race goers Narragansett Park winners in the Boston Evening American.

Pat McCarthy will be installed as Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at exercises at the Municipal Building, Vine street, Roxbury tonight . . . There will be a large attendance to honor the former heavyweight boxer, who is now a member of the Metropolitan police department.

Random Shots at Target

NOW THAT Al McCoy has been reinstated in Montreal it is likely that Manager Bill Brennan will arrange for a series of bouts in the Canadian city for the New England heavyweight champion . . . Suffolk Downs is already mailing out season passes for its meeting that opens on May 16 . . . The meeting will last for 60 days, after which Rockingham Park will open.

There will be no passes at Rockingham . . . There will be a charge of 50 cents for admission to the grandstand and $1 for the clubhouse . . . Lou Smith says this system will reduce his printing bill by $16,000.

This is the open season for college track meets . . . The college crews will also have their innings during the next seven weeks . . . These two branches of college sports lose money, but they help to eliminate some of the commercialized taste that goes with college football.

The college authorities have been unable to convince John Public that one of the most important features about football is the box office angle . . . True, it is college football that pays the expense of track and crew, but it is nevertheless highly over emphasized.

Connie Mack to Lecture At B. C. Coach School

By WALTER KILEY

Most of the New York correspondents are in agreement with Bucky Harris's recent statement that Lou Gehrig is "done" . . . One of them insists that "the Yankees have been winning with only eight men on the field."

Another tells that Columbia Lou is "down mentally," and "pessemistic" over his hitting and fielding failures . . . Majority of them feel that the 36-year-old Yank first sacker who has cracked all endurance records, will stay in the lineup as long as the team continues piling up wins . . . "but let defeats follow and Lou's day will be over."

Lou, himself, has nothing to say . . . as usual . . . the great star of other years is trying hard to vision a few more years of top service. Joe DiMaggio created quite a storm over his forthcoming marriage to Hollywood's Dorothy Arnold . . . But the San Francisco Italian wants it understood he won't marry this summer, not until the baseball season is ended.

MACK TO HELP EAGLES

John P. Curley, graduate athletic director at Boston College, got himself a real round-tripper when Connie Mack, 77-year-old manager of the Athletics, agreed to lend his services to the Boston College Coaching School . . . Connie will report at University Heights on the morning of Thursday, June 29th, for his teaching duties . . . His team will play the Red Sox that afternoon . . .

Eddie Collins of the Sox family and probably Joe Cronin will also give of their diamond knowledge . . . The school runs from June 26th through July 1, with the football staff to be topped by Dutch Myer of Texas Christian and Frank Leahy, New Eagle coach.

Joe Gordon, Yanks' brilliant second baseman sophomore, came by his thumb injury in most unusual fashion . . . Imagine having Carl Hubbard with his 240 pounds landing on him . . .

That's what happened . . . It was in the first game with the Athletics at Yankee Stadium and Gordon came sliding home from second with the winning run . . . He shot in under the mammoth "man-mountain," Cal's spikes tearing his finger.

EVANS MAKES DISCOVERY

Billy Evans, Sox chief scout, is in town, looking handsomer than ever . . . and beaming with optimism over some of his latest finds . . . who will replace the Sox' farms depleted by the graduation of Williams, Tabor, Bagby and others . . . He holds out great hopes for Louisville, where he says the fans are turning out in greatest numbers in history to see Donnie Bush's team in action . . .

Evans, with the Sox for 12 years, denies the statements made in a Saturday Evening Post story by Justin M. "Sam" Barry, Southern California University baseball coach . . . to the effect that the Sox have been paying boys while in college . . .

VERMONT FANS ON HAND

"In all my days with the Red Sox we have never once been guilty of going after college players while they were still students . . . However, there was one very unusual circumstance where a boy was going to drop out of college unless he had some help, where we made it possible for him to finish up his education . . . and that story's been so misrepresented that we are made to look at fault" . . .

Incidentally the Sox will play at Louisville with their farm hands on May 12th . . . jumping from St. Louis on an off day . . . while en route to Washington . . . A large delegation of fans from Vermont were down for yesterday's rained-out game . . . but they decided to stay over for today's session.

While there was some negotiations going on between Cleveland and the Red Sox for a trade involving Fred Ostermueller, whatever chances there were of the deal going through is now definitely off . . . at least so say Yawkey, Cronin and Collins . . . but as far as the Yanks and Sox figuring a trade involving Jake Powell and Jake Wade, there's nothing to it.

However, McCarthy and Cronin have been discussing possible ways of doing business between their Louisville and Kansas City farms.

CONNIE MACK'S famous score card will be seen at Boston College this year when he lectures at the first coaching school ever held at the Heights.

SOX GAME OFF AGAIN' TEAM OFF FOR PHILLY

By WALTER KILEY

At the time the Red Sox and Yankees were scheduled to be warming up for a ladies' day fray at the Fens this afternoon, both clubs were aboard the rattlers.

Kept idle for the third successive day by inclement weather, the Croninmen got an early start to Philadelphia, where on the morrow they open a two-game series before heading West, while the Yanks, who never saw the Yawkey Yard during a two-day stay here, hustled back to New York.

Cold weather caused the postponement of today's fray.

The temperature in the Back Bay was flirting with the freezing mark when the office force checked in at the Fens this morning and General manager Eddie Collins lost little time in calling the whole thing off.

The postponement was the fifth of the young season for the Sox and the sixth for the Yanks.

According to the schedule, these two rivals should be clashing for the fifth time today, and they've met but once to date. They were rained out twice in three days in New York last week.

The Bees, who have received a better break from the elements, will be back in town tomorrow to usher in a 16-day home stay in the opener of a three-game series with Bill Terry's Giants.

Friars 'Cap At 'Gansett

The fifth race at Narragansett today has been dedicated to the Friars Frolic, which will be held at the Boston Garden tonight.

The race is called the Friars Frolic Handicap, and the club, which is composed of amusement men in New England, is donating an extra prize to the winner, which will be a silver cup.

Proceeds of this Friars Frolic go to providing free movies to Hospital shut-ins. Tommy Dorsey and Phil Spitalny as well as two other big orchestras will play for the frolic, and many stars of stage and screen will be present to aid in this charity cause.

HUTCHINSON PUZZLE TO TIGER BOSSES

CHICAGO, April 28 (AP)—Baseball's $50,000 "mystery arm"—owned by Freddy Hutchinson—still is being counted on by the Detroit Tigers to help them stick in the American League pennant battle.

Fred Hutchinson

Last December the Tigers laid out the fifty grand and four players to get the 19-year-old pitcher from Seattle, where he right-handed his way to 25 victories last season.

Ever since there have been extremes in speculation as to his future, for this far this spring he's looked far from being ready for the big time. Numerous baseball men say he hasn't the stuff, while countless fans contend Detroit will farm him out for at least one year.

BAKER HOPEFUL

But Manager Del Baker of the Tigers still has to be convinced that Freddy hasn't enough talent to make good this season. He believes the husky youth will overcome the wildness that has plagued his work. He thinks he'll gain confidence—which was shaken after a terrific "build up"—and is definitely planning to drop Freddy into a relief spot in the near future.

In two inter-club games this spring, Hutchinson gave Cincinnati seven hits in four innings and Toronto four safeties in four frames. In both games he was wild, and he's been worrying about lack of control, something he had plenty of when piling up those Seattle wins.

ROOKIE SILENT

The most publicized rookie since Bob Feller came out of the Iowa cornfields, Hutchinson isn't saying a thing about his chances, for fear his remarks might be construed as "popping off."

If rooming with the "hottest rookie in the majors could give Hutchinson confidence, he's in a good spot. His hotel partner is 21-year-old Barney McCosky, the Tiger outfielder who's leading the league in hitting.

"I'm just getting up there and swinging," grinned the young Tiger lead-off man. "If I have a weakness—and I guess every player has one—they'll soon find it out, so it's no use worrying about it."

Handley to Join Pirates Today

PEORIA, Ill., April 28—Lee Handley, Pittsburgh third baseman recuperating here from being hit by a thrown ball, says he will rejoin the Pirates in St. Louis today.

Handley was hit on the ear by a fast ball pitched by Johnny Allen, Cleveland hurler, in a pre-season exhibition game at New Orleans. Manager Traynor blames his team's current slump on the loss of Handley.

Plan Changes In Ice Rules

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—The ice hockey committee of the Amateur Athletic Union set March 1 to 3 for the 1940 national A. A. U. championship tournament. The site will be selected later.

The committee also recommended two rules changes for submission to the national convention in December. One would limit body checking to the defensive zone, with a major penalty for "flagrant violation of checking into the boards."

The other change would prohibit carrying the stick above the shoulder. A warning and face-off would follow the first violation, with a minor penalty inflicted for repeated violations, and a major if injury results.

ENGLISH CHAMP OUT

SOUTHPORT, England, April 28 (AP)—J. Pennick, English amateur golf champion for the past two years, was eliminated from the 1939 championship play, dropping a fourth round match to 18-year-old Ronald White after a 19-hole battle over the Birkdale links.

SIMMONS' SLUGGING MAKES BUCKY HARRIS LOOK GOOD AS SEER

WASHINGTON, April 28 (INS)—Last winter Bucky Harris, astute pilot of the Senators, predicted Al Simmons would win many a game for the Bees this season.

AL SIMMONS

"Simmons isn't through by any means," Harris stoutly maintained. "He may not be quite so fast as he used to be, but he still can play the outfield about as well as anybody. And he can hit.

"The Bees need a power hitter, and Simmons is all of that. He'll break up many a close game for them."

At the time many believed Harris was merely trying to put in a plug for an old pal who had been with him in the American League for 15 years.

But Harris insisted he meant what he said, an dtoday his faith in Simmons is bearing fruit.

Simmons is playing a great game in the outfield for the Bees, and no later than yesterday it was his first National League homer that gave the Boston entry a 5-4 decision over the hard-fighting Phils.

The big right-hand slugger averaged .334 for his 15 years spent with the Athletics, White Sox and Senators.

Connie Mack thought he was washed up seven years ago, but here he is making a new start in a new circuit and hitting just about what he always did.

BUCCS DROP 7 IN ROW

Banjo hitters are all right if they hit often enough, but give me those big bogoe who can break up a ball game with one smash. They may not hit so often as the little fellows, but when they do hit something happens.

It was a nice exhibition of power hitting that gave the Reds an 11-3 margin over the Cubs yesterday, with Ival Goodman leading the Cincinnati attack with a homer and triple good for five runs.

The Pirates are the mystery team of th eleague. They now have lost seven straight and are so firmly anchored in last place it may take them weeks to get out even if they ever get started.

They seemed to have their latest effort well in han d when Gus Suhr's 11th inning homer put them one up on the Cardinals, but the Redbirds came right back with two and won, 6 to 5.

The Senators waived their rights to the American League cellar in favor of those long-time tenants, the Athletics, whom the Senators trounced, 6-3, behind Dutch Leonard's second winning effort.

Johnny Marcum, who has been knocking around for years without causing undue excitement, made a winning debut with the Browns to beat the Indians, 4-2. Jeff Heath's ninth-inning homer robbed Johnny of a shut-out.

The Tigers lost their first of three overtime sessions within a week when Mike Kreevich went on a rempage to give the White Sox a 2-1 nod in 13 innings.

Nature Lovers To Study 'Run'

On Sunday, the WPA-MDC Division of Recreation will sponsor a party for nature seekers and sportsmen in East Weymouth to witness the annual herring run, where for more than a hundred years these "Alewives" have been coming up Back river in their yearly "spring running" at the spawning season.

The spawning beds in the shallow waters of Whitman's Pond in Weymouth, now barred by a high dam and two waterfalls, have for more than a century been the natal home of these Alewives, and long ago the town of Weymouth provided for their continuance by passing a law compelling those who blocked the stream to transport a certain number of barrels of spawn-fish up river and around the dam into the quiet waters of this fresh water pond.

Similar regulations are in force at other of these "herring runs," and thus the Alewives (which are a species of herring) are still plentiful in our coastal waters.

Harry George Higbee, staff naturalist and an authority on the subject, will be present to explain the story of the run, tracing the history of the fish from spawning to their return to the ocean to die.
